Dietician Ann Grieg joined Maryknoll Lay Missioners because they seek to "create a more just and compassionate world by responding to the needs of the poor." She now works in El Salvador in areas devastated by earthquakes to distribute and train local poor communities in the use of protein-rich soy.

Joining with medical and childcare specialists, and utilizing her skills in nutrition, health education and cooking techniques, she has trained at least 15 economically poor Salvadorian communities to self-sufficiency through the use of soy products.
